Missing Children - A Tragic and Sizeable Problem

According to the FBI's National Crime Information Center, 80% of the approximately 822,000 people reported missing to US law enforcement agencies in 2002 were juveniles.

Research has also shown that it is critical for parents and police to have fingerprints, vital statistics and a current photo on hand to use for comparison when a missing child is believed found.

Given the recent increase in high profile child abductions, and the many more that go unpublicized, America is starting to take action. Law enforcement agencies, nonprofit organizations and large and small corporations are providing their time, resources and attention to the children in their communities to prevent child abductions and to expedite finding children who are lost or abducted.

Comprehensive Child ID - Vital Information at Your Fingertips

One of the key identification measures being deployed in communities is the electronic capture and creation of a comprehensive child ID card, with color photograph, vital demographic and medical information, plus the child's 10 fingerprints. While essential, photographs may not be enough. If a child is found months or years later, a photograph alone may not provide quick and accurate identification, if for example, hairstyle and other characteristics have changed. A fingerprint can provide a positive ID over time, every time.

Cross Match's Child Identification Solution - Fast, Easy, Inexpensive and Meaningful

The Cross Match Technologies' Child Identification Solution offers everything you need for your child safety community relations program. In fact, with the power of our new 10-print fingerprint scanner and software, you will be able to process children three times as quickly and with considerably better image quality than with ink and paper or single fingerprint scanners.

Child Safety Community Relations - Rewarding in Many Ways

There is nothing more rewarding than providing complete ID cards, with photos, fingerprints and demographic data to the community. Parents love it and are extremely grateful, which reflects positively on the organization providing the fingerprinting and ID service. Children particularly enjoy the identification process - getting their pictures taken and seeing the images of their fingerprints on a computer screen.

Providing good community relations, with a focus on child ID and safety, is the best place for corporations or law enforcement agencies to commit their charitable time and resources. Police department, nonprofit and company personnel can feel good about what they are doing, while generating very positive public awareness of their brand identity.

Features and Benefits

Fast and easy creation. Simple 4-step fingerprint capture process - easy even with the smallest children:

1. Left hand, four finger placement on glass platen surface
2. Right hand, four finger placement on glass platen surface
3. Left thumb placement
4. Right thumb placement

User friendly. Microsoft Windows software platform with simplified user interface. Child demographics information is easily entered using Cross Match's Child Identification application. It is up to the operator or parent to disregard certain data points if desired.

Electronic data. Computer generated ANSI/NIST compliant electronic fingerprint transaction (EFT) file with fingerprints, photograph and demographic data can be saved to a CD and uploaded by police departments in case of an emergency.

Easy Set-Up. Simple, self-installable system, which comes complete with a manual and help-desk customer support if needed. Easy for non-technical customers to set up and operate.

Quality Checks. Built-in checks to ensure quality fingerprints are captured every time. If a poor quality print is taken, the system prompts and allows you to retake the print instantaneously until satisfied. This is an advantage over messy ink and paper.
